Editor's Column

The Society for the Preservation and Conservation of Carmel has worked hard and done a good job in organizing the resistance to "The Plan" but this week they have swung out on a twelve tone row into the great blue yonder. The Pine Cone is not swinging with them.

We do not believe the situation has become so desperate that we must either swallow The Plan or have parking meters.

We are greatly encouraged by the council's immediate recognition of the importance of the issues involved in the Charles Schultz appeal. (See lead story on this page).

The planning commission intends that retail business and living accommodations shall be barred from the C-2 zone where heretofore they have been permitted, though primarily the purpose of the zone is for "commercial services" (laundries, dairies, etc.) and "light industry."

If the council upholds the planing commission's decision, property owners in the zone will be limited to a point where they will have to seek "light industry" and "commercial services" (a mortuary is classified as commercial service) to find productive use for their land.

Does Carmel want deliberately to bring in "light industry" and "commercial service?" Much of our commercial service is located in Monterey, Pacific Grove and Seaside. For years ice has been delivered in town from over the hill. Though there is a laundry in Carmel, Pacific Grove and Monterey laundries pick up and deliver bundles here for people who prefer their service. The location of repair shops, car salesrooms, and secondhand car lots in Monterey instead of Carmel has not seriously inconvenienced Carmel people.

The C-2 zone is clearly defined. If people wish to build stores with apartments on the second floor across the street from a blacksmith shop or in an area where a fender works, a planing mill, or some other noise making business may be established, they know what they are doing and apparently are not concerned with the noise potential. Certainly they would have no grounds of complaint about noise in the future.

As a matter of fact, our town is so small that all of us in the residence area on the hillside get the noise from any other part of town, including the construction racket that has been going on all through the business and residence district for the past several years.

The Regional News Service, a clipsheet financed by the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce, says in this week's lead editorial:

"America's vast western playground is being visited by armies of recreation seekers this summer as never before. The national parks, forest and public lands are hosts to teeming millions, seeking rest and relaxation.

"They are everywhere, from the Leidig, son of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Leidig, is seen (center above), flanked by two other California midshipmen receiving amphibious warfare training at Little Creek Naval Amphibious Base, Norfolk, Virginia, under this summer's Naval Reserve Officer Training Corps program. Don returned home ten days ago. He was stationed at Corpus Christi, Texas, before going to Virginia.

In Texas, Don received jet flying instruction and now says, "Boats are for the birds". He wants to be a flyer. He visited Washington, D.C., after his Navy training period was over, continued with a friend to Chicago where they picked up a car and drove across the United States.

"It's a big country", says Don, "it took forever to get out of Texas."

Don returns to UCLA for his junior year in a few days, in time to take part in Phi Delt rushing before school starts on September 18.

Lions Achieve Goal, Grading Starts On Baseball Diamond

Grading begins today to level the land south of the high school tennis courts for a community baseball field.

The Carmel Lions Club, with funds raised by several projects and donations from sports-interested citizens, will pay for the grading, which was let this week to Peninsula Paving and Grading Company, F. J. Engle of Seaside, for $5,280, which is $3,000 less than the second low bid. Four contractors submitted bids.

Lions Club projects for raising money for the field included a Taco booth at the Monterey County Fair, which cleared over $1,000, a donkey baseball game, and a Christmas Tree Sale. The Kiwanis Club assisted the Lions in the latter project.

Henry Venn and Bob O'Brien make up the Lions Club baseball field committee. The school district is represented by a committee of J. O. Handley, Stuart Mitchell and William Wakefield.

Grading, which is the part of the work the Lions undertook as their responsibility, will be completed within three weeks. Hauling in top soil and seeding for grass will have to wait until after the rains.

Council Invites All Of C-2 To Schultz Hearing

At its regular meeting last night the Carmel City Council set September 19, 8:00 o'clock to hear Mr. and Mrs. Charles Schultz's appeal of the Carmel Planning Commission's action in denying them a building permit for their combination shops and apartments building in the C-2 zone.

City Clerk Larry Rose was instructed to notify every property owner in the C-2 zone of the September 19 hearing since their property values will be affected if the council supports the planning commission in denying the permit.

"As I see it, this (the planning commission's refusal to issue the permit) means implementing the Master Plan," Councilman Carl Patnude commented. The proposed Master Plan for Carmel has not yet come before the council for consideration and for action.

"This affects the land values in the entire zone," Councilman Chitwood pointed out.

"I saw a check for $300,000 for property in that zone that didn't change hands because of the planning commission's decision," said Patnude.

Mayor Horace Lyon proposed that in addition to the hearing on the appeal, the council hold a study session on what its policy should be since their decision would be "far reaching."

In his letter to the council asking for a review of the planning commission's decision, Schultz characterized the commission's action as "ill advised, arbitrary and capricious."

The commission, using its powers under the interim zoning ordinance, refused to grant the permit on the grounds that "the use is incompatible with the C-2 zone."

Under the existing zoning ordinance, C-2 is designated as a light industry and commercial service zone, the only zone that allows such uses, but it also allows all uses permitted in C-1 (business zone) and (R-1 residence zone).

Under the ordinance, the Schultz Building, with shops on the first floor, apartments on the second, constitutes a legal use; garages in the basement, providing 100 percent off street parking for the living units, brings the building

Dr. Richard M. Head, professor of aeronautics at the United States Naval Postgraduate School flew to Belgium ten days ago. He will deliver a paper, Airfoils Derived from an Elliptic Cylinder, at the International Congress of Applied Mechanics in Brussels which started yesterday and continues until September 13. Mrs. Head, Timothy, eight and a half, and his sister, Terry, six and a half, remained at home in Mission Fields. The children are both pupils at River School.

Dr. Head's paper will present a new series of airplane wing profiles that have improved characteristics over those used in present-day aircraft. While abroad he plans to visit several of the European supersonic wind tunnel facilities with the thought of bringing back new ideas to incorporate into courses and laboratories at the NPGS.

Dear Mrs. Cook:

The Lawrence Livingston, Jr.'s proposed master plan for Carmel is meeting with a great deal of opposition and is being rejected by hundreds of persons from Carmel, Carmel Valley, The Highlands, the unincorporated areas of Carmel and Pebble Beach. These objectors include the residents, business people, realtors and motel owners. Three petitions are in circulation opposing the plan.

The petition sponsored by the Society for the Conservation and Preservation of Carmel-by-the-Sea is attached. It opposes ten major issues of the plan.

Persons interested in maintaining Carmel as a residential community and who wish to prevent it from becoming a tourist mecca are requested to sign this petition. Petitions may be signed at the De-Neale Morgan Studio, Lincoln near Seventh Street; the Looking Glass Beauty Salon, Dolores near Fifth

CARMEL HIGH'S ANNUAL RED & GREY GAME NEXT WED.

First game action of the current season is in store for Carmel High gridders next Wednesday afternoon when the Annual Red & Grey clash takes place at Bardarson Field. With both squads using inexperienced players for the most part, this year's intrasquad game should be one of the most interesting in recent years. Designed to provide game experience for both varsity and junior-varsity players, the Red & Grey game has always provided interesting competition and the battle for positions on both the varsity and junior-varsity is particularly keen this season. The more experienced and heavier junior-varsity players are mixed with the varsity candidates to form the two 22-man squads.

Two ex-Padre players from last year's championship eleven will coach the Red & Grey squads. Syd Trevvett, an all-league selection last year will guide the Red gang while Bob Wise, a top defensive end, will direct the strategy for the Greys. Charley Dawson, a rugged quarterback with three years' experience, will captain the Red aggregation and will have the following players on his squad: Andy Gray, Jack Faia, Charley Leavitt, Bob Durbrow, Art Wilkerson, Paul Prince, Bob Leidig, John Stiles, Mike Meheen, Malcolm Burdis, Fred Nelson, Mike Gahagan, Bert Macahilig, Mike Raggett, Alan Eaker, Robin Way, George Blanks, Ron Leidig, Jerry Stuefloten, Phil White and Van Treat.

The Grey squad will be captained by Clyde Kalumann, another three-year letterman, and will have the following players: Cim Conway, David Ostrander, Tim O'Shea, Pat Harney, Brian Leidig, Don Smith, Joe Mason, Parker Pollock, Neil Giarratana, Terry Curran, Phil Durbrow, Roger Fremier, Rodney Phillips, John Morse, Doug Carlson, Butch Turner, Bill Hicks, Jon Stuefloten, Jim Bannerman and Jim Lee.

Next Wednesday's intrasquader is billed for 2:30 and the public is invited to sit in on the game free of charge.

THE SPORT WHEEL

Monterey Peninsula College Has Interesting Grid Slate—A look at the Monterey Peninsula College football schedule shows that new Coach Bill Abbey is taking on the toughest schedule in the history of the school. Besides the regular Coast JC Conference schedule the Lobos tackle four tough opponents from other leagues. First action for the Lobos is the Hal Youngman Intrasquad tussle on September 15th. On September 21st, the Citrus Junior College of Azusa invades the MPC stadium. The College of Sequoias comes to MPC on September 29th, and the Lobos hit the road on the next two Saturdays, playing Glendale on October 6th and Vallejo on October 13th. Menlo JC is at Monterey on October 20th and this should be one of the best games of the season. After Menlo, the Lobos take East Contra Costa, Napa, San Jose and then the big Thanksgiving special against Hartnell at Salinas.

CCAL Football Jamboree Scheduled For September 14th — One of the most interesting football shows in Northern California is scheduled for the Salinas High stadium on Friday, September 14, when the annual Coast Counties Athletic League Football Jamboree unfolds. This grid festival matches the East schools of the CCAL against the West schools for one fifteen-minute half of play. Besides the early-season brand of football dished up by the varsity squads, the color of the 12 rooting sections and bands adds a special note to this annual grid festival. To equalize the competition, schools of the B division are matched against each other and the larger A schools meet opponents within their league. Gate receipts realized from the Jamboree are used to finance the league operation throughout the year. Carmel High drew Gonzales in last year's Jamboree, but as defending champions will be matched with one of the larger schools this year.

Moffett Field No Match For Powerful Seahawks In Optimist Game—Paul Larson and his power-packed Santa Cruz Seahawks just barely broke a sweat as they clobbered the Moffett Field Flyers, 53 to 6, in the Optimist charity game last Saturday night. Long on fight and try but short on practice, the Flyers put up a game battle against the star-studded Hawks but couldn't cope with the swift of such backs as McWhirter, Hammack, Joyner, Bullian and Larson. Passing with professional precision, Larson was on target during the entire game and had adept receivers in Merle Flattley and Jim Cunningham. The Flyers were a gambling crew, disdaining to kick on fourth down in their own territory and resorting to passes or runs to keep their chances alive. Over 3000 fans attended the opening football game on the Peninsula and helped the Monterey and Seaside Optimists to help some needy youngsters.

TOURIST AT HOME

City Clerk Larry Rose was back on the job Monday after a week's vacation. "We saw a lot of interesting things, had a lot of fun", said Rose, and added that he slept at home every night and never went any farther away than Moss Landing.

The "we" of the vacation were Chris 11, Pen 9, and Wade 6, Larry's children. They went boating and fishing at Pinto Lake near Watsonville. Watsonville yielded them another day of entertainment when they went sightseeing at the roundhouse, the packing sheds and the bottling works. They went aboard a boat at Moss Landing, and they went picnicking at Big Sur.

Mrs. Rose, who has a job at the Navy School, couldn't share the "vacation" with the rest of the family other than to hear enthusiastic accounts of it when the travellers returned each evening.

FIRST AUDUBON MEETING

The Monterey Peninsula Audubon Society will hold its first meeting of this season on September 7 at 8:00 o'clock in the evening in the Carmel High School Library. A program follows the business meeting. A summer camp report will be given by Elmer E. Highley, Edwin L. Hixon and Carl G. Lannecker. Screen tour season tickets are to be on sale at this meeting. Members are asked to bring names and addresses of persons who might be interested in the screen tours, according to president Robert P. Parsons.

Mrs. Young To Teach Poetry Workshop

Poetry-lovers will be offered an opportunity to participate in a Poetry Workshop in the Fall Adult Education Program. The Workshop will be conducted by Mrs. Olivia Young, poet and teacher, at the Sunset School, beginning Monday, September 17, at 7:30 o'clock.

"We will consider poetry techniques and content," Mrs. Young says, "with assignments in rhyme, rhythm, form, and imagery. Individual work will be constructively analyzed. The class is designed for beginning poets. If you wish to write poetry, do come. If you are writing, perhaps a brush-up in techniique might help. There is much inspiration and incentive to work, in studying together."

Mrs. Young has been active in the Poetry Section of the California Writers' Club in Berkeley, and is now treasurer for the newly organized Carmel Branch. She is analyst for the Arena Blanca Chapter of the Federation of Chaparral Poets in Pacific Grove, a member of the Ina Coolbrith Circle of San Francisco, and of the Poetry Society of Georgia. Before moving to the Monterey Peninsula with husband George, she was an organist-choir director and taught piano for many years. Mr. Young was employed by the Oakland Board of Education.

Her poetry has been widely published—Good Housekeeping, Christian Science Monitor, Carmel Pine Cone, Author and Journalist, The Writer, Western Family, Quicksilver, Poetry Society of Georgia Yearbook and many other magazines and anthologies.

Connie Nielsen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Nielsen, leaves tomorrow for her second year at Stephens College in Columbia, Missouri. Connie has been asked to arrive early at Stephens to attend a Campus Leaders' Conference from September 9-10. She is a Senior Pal whose duty is to aid new students throughout the school year. After the conference training period for campus officers is over they will be prepared to assume their duties when the other students arrive on September 11.

DR. FARLEY, SPEAKER FOR BOOKLOVERS

The Booklovers will hold their first fall session at Town House on Monday afternoon at 3:00 o'clock. The speaker will be Dr. Fred Farley, and his subject "How is Poetry Different?" Dr. Farley recently retired from the faculty of the College of the Pacific. That he is an interesting speaker is attested by his having been chosen last spring as Commencement speaker of the college where he has taught so long. All interested in books and writers are welcome to attend the meetings of the club.

WAYFARER AUXILIARY

Group activities, camp work, religious programs and recreation of some fifteen C-Bees of the Church of the Wayfarer on their recent week at Lake Tahoe were outlined for the Wayfarer Women's Auxiliary at the meeting on Tuesday afternoon by Charles S. Downs, director of education and group activities of the church. The women helped meet expenses for the trip and Mr. Downes was guide director, assisted by Mrs. Harold Funk as camp mother.

This first fall meeting of the auxiliary began with luncheon at 12:30 served by members of Circle 3 led by Mrs. Aimee B. Charlton and presided over by Mrs. C. W. Robinson, the president. Around seventy-five members attended. Mrs. Robinson announced the officers for the year as Mrs. J. R. Christie, first vice president; Mrs. C. A. Nedderson, second vice president; Mrs. Rollo Payne, secretary; Mrs. Robert Cairns, treasurer; circle leaders, Mrs. Karl F. Walker, One; Mrs. Anne Brislawn, Two; Mrs. Charlton, Three; and Miss Maude Hook, Four.

At the meeting following the luncheon Mrs. Fred Farley, chairman of devotions, introduced Dr. Lawrence J. Osborne, professor at the College of the Pacific, who discussed the religious and poetic influence of George Herbert, village minister and poet in England in the 17th century, whose work is arousing renewed interest at this time. Mrs. Christie as program chairman introduced Miss Zeala Wright, who gave two solos, "Homing" and "Thou Wilt Keep Him in Perfect Peace," accompanied at the piano by Mrs. C. A. Broaddus, which were much enjoyed. Mr. Downe's talk followed.

At the business meeting the Auxiliary adopted a budget of $720 for the year for various religious, welfare and educational projects at home and abroad. An invitation was accepted to the annual interchurch tea to be given by the Women's Association of the Carmel Presbyterian Church on October 25. The fall meeting of Monterey Peninsula United Church Women at Carmel Valley Community Church on September 28 beginning at 11:00 a.m. was announced. A panel discussion on "Young People in Need" will be led by Dr. Margaret Swigart.

Public Hearing On Park District In Salinas, Tues.

A public hearing on the proposed Carmel Recreation, Park and Parkway District will be held at 11:00 o'clock Tuesday morning at the court house in Salinas before the county board of supervisors.

If objections to the district are not aired at the hearing, the supervisors will call an election.

The district has the same boundaries as the Carmel Unified School District, would have its own elected board which would fix taxes (limited to 25 cent ceiling) decide on land acquisition for park and recreation purposes, and administer funds for recreation projects that might come under its jurisdiction.

It was proposed that the Carmel Youth Center receive its support from the district, but the Youth Center is conducting its own drive for funds.

At last night's city council meeting a letter was read from School Superintendent Stuart Mitchell to the effect that the school district would like to be relieved of its contribution to the Youth Center's budget but the school district intended to continue supporting its own recreation program.

The program of the Recreation, Park and Parkway District is nebulous at the moment but the Carmel City Council, which asked the supervisors to set the legal machinery in motion to create the district, intimated that it would have a program to offer before the election is held.

COUNCIL APPROVES NEW POLICE OFFICER

Thomas Frances Shepherd, age 28, six feet tall, weight 204 pounds, blue eyes and brown hair, of Scots-Irish descent is the new member of the Carmel Police Force appointed by the City Council last night to replace Lowell Vernon Dye who resigned last month to join the Seaside Police Force.

Shepherd was born in Springfield, Massachusetts, graduated from high school in Dundee, Scotland, and served in the Army for ten years, attaining the rank of first sergeant. He is married and has one child.

PETITION

Carmel-by-the-Sea
California

To The Honorable City Council, City Hall, Carmel-by-the-Sea, California

Subject: Opposition to the Plan for the Conservation and Enhancement of Carmel-by-the-Sea and environs.

We, the undersigned citizens of Carmel-by-the-Sea and environs, respectfully submit to the Honorable City Council of the City of Carmel-by-the-Sea, this petition specifying our disapproval of parts of the proposed plan, as noted below:

1. Reducing Highway No. 1 from four-lane to a two-lane highway and the consideration of any new entrances into the City of Carmel.

2. Closing Ocean Avenue forever by the creation of the proposed Civic Center and village square at Ocean Avenue and Junipero Street.

3. Closing Ocean Avenue or any street crossing Ocean Avenue to vehicular traffic.

4. Lack of through streets in residential districts which might hamper, hinder or delay fire fighting equipment in promptly reaching the scene of the fire.

5. Permitting any new tourist accommodations and/or multiple dwellings outside the business area.

6. Forfeiting and thereby losing forever the peace, quiet, safety, and matchless beauty of Junipero Street by converting it into a high speed, 4-lane highway.

7. Making Pescadero Road an access route to Carmel from the north, crossing the canyon to connect with Monte Verde, or having Monte Verde connect with the Seventeen Mile Drive, or using Monte Verde as a collector street, or in any way whatsoever destroying or disturbing the natural beauty and quietude of that district.

8. Changing the essence of Carmel by converting it into a commercialized tourist mecca.

9. Creation of downtown parking areas as proposed in the master plan.

10. There has been no estimate of the cost of the plan. Parking lots alone would be an expenditure of many millions of dollars. Therefore any plan that will materially increase the tax burden, or in any other way adversely affect the bonafide Carmel residents is not acceptable.

On the other hand, we do approve of the acquisition of the green belt, and a reasonable solution to the parking problem to relieve congestion in the business district. It is suggested that the Murphy lot at Ocean and Junipero be considered as a city parking area with stalls at two levels.

To the Editor:

It is with pleasure I enclose check and renewal slip for the Pine Cone.

After spending two winters in Carmel my sister and I are following with much interest your coverage of the proposed plan for transforming Carmel. Having noted the changes wrought in past years at La Jolla and Laguna we hope that Carmel may be fortunate in maintaining its present charm.

Cordially,

Dear Friend:

Praise be and pass the ammunition to you, Daisy Bostick, for trying to keep Carmel out of the clutches of these Master Plans.

We have always hoped that someday we'd have a home in Carmel with perhaps a bevy of quail in our front yard as we saw in someone's yard the last time we were there not so many years ago.

Fight for the charm that is Carmel. More power to you.

Gratefully,

Having been a full time taxpayer, and part time resident of Carmel for over 30 years, I am deeply opposed to the so-called "Master Plan", and especially opposed to the suggested changes of Junipero, on which our property is located.

Will you please add my signature below to the petition now in circulation against the "plan".

Thanking you

Dear Mr. Putnam:

Since the Monterey Peninsula Audubon Society does not hold meetings during the summer months, it would be impossible now for our society to pass a resolution and issue an official statement as to its views regarding the proposed road and parking space which we understand is in the master plan to extend to the River mouth for access to the Carmel River Beach Park.

However, we wish it to be known that our society contributed substantially toward the establishment of this Beach Park and that we did so because we understood that this was for the purpose of preserving the area as a wild life sanctuary, and with the view also of preserving its natural scenic beauty.

We believe that the proposed road and parking area would encroach upon the natural conditions of the lagoon which now attract and protect many species of shore and water birds and that the proposed construction would destroy one more natural habitat and thus remove one more of the features which have in the past brought

FROM A LIBRARIAN'S NOTEBOOK

By Ruth Galvin Thornburg

Your life will be filled with spice this week, if the library has anything to do with it, because we have for you a variety of reading matter. We have had many requests for information on handwriting and all that it is said to connote, so this week we have a new book on graphology or the art of describing character through handwriting. Klara Roman is a psychologist, and an expert of the field of graphology. The title of the book is Handwriting, a Key to Personality.

The Parents Handbook is an encyclopedia of behavior in childhood, arranged by subject in alphabetical form, with many helpful cross-references. At the end of a section on one certain subject, it will say "see also" various other related subjects, and thus the searcher is led from his first interest to other phases which will give him a really informative result. This handbook was written by Dr. Allan Fromme. In a related field, that of psychiatry, we have Must You Conform? by Dr. Robert Lindner. You remember he is the man who wrote The Fifty Minute Hour. This latest book is made up of several related articles, one of which bears the title of the book. Philip Wyllie says, "Dr. Lindner draws his material from his immense experience with American men and women who have grown 'sick-minded' trying to be true to themselves in an era of rigid attitudes and senseless pressures."

In public affairs, we have Brief Authority; Recollections of China and Thailand, by Ewin Stanton. The author was U.S. Minister to Thailand and retired from the post in 1953. Prior to that he had been connected with several American consulates in the far east, and his book is based upon his many years in the diplomatic service.

Another in the Peterson Field Guide Series is the Field Guide to the Ferns and Their Related Families, by Boughton Cobb. The fine pencil drawings which illustrate the book were well done by Laura Foster. There is also a new book on Mushrooms and Toadstools by John Ramsbottom, which you should certainly study before you endanger your life by going mushroom hunting.

For weavers using the four harness loom we have A Handweavers Workbook, by Heather Thorpe. The jacket blurb says the book is for those in the novice class, but to this librarian the whole thing looked completely baffling. If you are a weaver, or are hoping to be one, you should look at this book and decide it's relative difficulty for yourself.

We had a rather difficult time with the next book which is Behold the Glory by Chad Walsh. The first copy came and it was bound into its cover upside down. We returned it. The dealer lost the record of the transaction and it was only after some correspondence that we received the replacement copy last week. Mr. Walsh is a professor of English on weekdays and an Episcopalian rector on Sundays. This varied, rich life has led him to write nine books, of which this is the first one which is purely devotional. He says, "The question is simply how best to recognize the God who is always with us, how to love Him more and serve Him better, so that the relationship which begins here and now will only grow richer and more meaningful with time and beyond time".

There are two novels this week, one is a mystery by Charlotte Armstrong, and the other is the latest from John Van Druten. There is also a play, No Time for Sergeants, by Levin, which is the funniest thing to hit the theatre for a long time, and very successful, too.

And finally, we should mention that at last we have a good history of Sweden, a thing we have long lacked. This one was written by Ingvar Andersson, who is Keeper of the National Archives in Stockholm.

G.O.P. WOMEN'S REGISTRATION TABLE

The Carmel Republican Women's Club is sponsoring a registration table on Dolores Street near Sixth Avenue until September 13. A qualified registrar will be on duty from 10:00 o'clock in the morning until 4:00 in the afternoon. The availability of divine power with which to meet the pressures and uncertainties of modern life will be the topic of a lecture on Christian Science to be delivered in Carmel, Sunday afternoon, September 9, at 3:00 o'clock by Mary Wellington Gale of San Francisco.

Open to the public without charge, the lecture will be sponsored by the members of First Church of Christ, Scientist, Mrs. Gale will speak in the church edifice at Monte Verde and Sixth Streets. Her subject will be Christian Science: It's Answer to Man's Need in The Atomic Age.

On extensive tour as a member of The Christian Science Board of Lectureship, Mrs. Gale has traveled throughout the United States and Canada. She has been actively engaged in the public practice of Christian Science healing since 1928. Prior to this she was in the advertising business in Chicago. LIFE-GIVING DROP

Water is today America's greatest concern. And it is by far the most important item in the community structure of this Peninsula.

There is a lot to be known about water. We drink it and wash with it. We irrigate our lawns and gardens. We talk about the weather and complain when it is too wet or too dry. Most of us are conscious nearly all the time of the importance of water in our daily lives, but actually our knowledge of it is pretty skimpy.

And the system which serves this area is, generally speaking, not well understood. This system is unique. It has its own peculiarities and cannot be compared to any other. It would be to everyone's interest to study the facts of waterworks operation on the Peninsula in a true scientific, unbiased and unselfish spirit, and learn the truth about the situation here.

Have you seen the graphic relief map of your water system at 481 Tyler Street, in Monterey?

Carmelites On The Go

Clovelly, No. Devon
August 18, 1956

Dear Wilma and Cliff:

We are here for one night, in this Fairy Book Village, and were lucky enough to get a room in the Red Lion Inn on the Pier. I have marked our room with an X. We look out on the beach and harbor, and we walked "up along" and "down along" the High "Street" (cobble-stoned steps). Quite a feat! Twenty-three years ago we did it on the donkeys, but they are not at work today. They have a five day week!

Our car is housed high up above the village, and the Inn runs a jeep down the so-called "road", very bumpy and bouncy. Wouldn't have missed it for anything. Last night we were equally lucky in getting a room in a big hotel at St. Ives; tried six without success, but wouldn't give up and finally wangled one. The holiday crowds are terrific and getting through a resort town's narrow steets beggars the imagination. Our car is very small and turns out to be just right for this tour. We don't do any fancy speed driving: just jog along and make about a hundred miles a day. Today's run included Lands End, Penzance, Newquay and then Clovelly for a total run of 130 miles, quite a big day (from 9:15 in the morning until 4:15 in the afternoon — seven hours!).

We revisited Teignmouth (where we spent our honeymoon, 41 years ago last May) and Torquay, and drove many miles through the narrow country lanes of glorious Devon.

We have sent you cards from Sweden, Norway, Scotland and Ireland, just to let you know that our tour is a great success.

The weather is "touchy". Today we have driven through showers and drenching rains most of the day and were very glad to get housed for the night, and have a fairly clear evening. It is now 8:30 and being overcast is going dusk. The last climber seems to have climbed the stony steep stair, the sea is gently lapping the pebbly beach and all the world is quiet and at rest. It's all very lovely and well worth while—all the enterprise that goes into a tour of this kind. It often calls for initiative and management. We think of you all the time and of all our good friends in Carmel.

Sincerely,
Lucie and Peter Mawdsley

Tomorrow we go all through North Devon, Ilfracombe, Lynton, Plymouth (Lorna Doone Country) to Bridgewater, and on Monday through Glastonbury, Wells, Cheddar Gorge and Weston Super-Mare back to Bristol (about 1000 miles around).

Rotterdam, Holland
Sept. 1, 1956

Dear Wilma:

We sail in just three hours for New York, bringing almost to a close our very enjoyable four months in Europe. I had good intentions of writing to you before, along the way, but—

After we land on September 10 in New York, we will start our drive across country in the German car which has taken us more than 10,000 miles since the first week in May. We will visit the Fred Heryers (part-time Carmel residents) in Kansas City, and the Alfred Wands (artist who spends much time in Carmel) in Denver. Then we will meet my wife's parents, the Rev. and Mrs. Charles H. Burrill in Salt Lake City and they will return with us to Carmel. We expect to arrive on Friday, September 21, and I will be back on the job at the Church of the Wayfarer on September 23, after five months' absence.

The four of us (including sons, Stephen and Stanton) have had a wonderful time touring 16 countries. A highlight was the excursion the entire length of Finland into Lapland and the Arctic Circle, visiting Hammerfest, the most northern city in the world, and then returning down the Norwegian Fjords. We'll bore people for years talking about our time and showing the several hundred kodachromes we have taken.

Our best to you,
K. Fillmore Gray

The Carmel Pine Cone

Dear Girls and Boys:

It was my pleasure to accompany brother Bob on a tour of the northern tier of air bases in France extending from Chaumount, which is about 100 miles south of Nancy to Laon, near St. Quentin in the northeast section.

There are seven air bases in this arch that parallel the French border. Bob is the Project Engineer for three of them, namely, Chambley, Etain and Laon. In the Metz area there are 14 other bases that are completed or nearing completion and Bob is starting two new ones at Chalon Vatry and Brienne which will include a 1000-bed hospital,, ammunition depots, etc.

The bases that I saw are very extensive and are designed for a capacity of 3000 men each.

Some of the bases are a joint venture of NATO and the U.S. Air Force and some are for the air force alone. Bob's company is a private civilian engineering firm in New York, operating under a contract with J. C. A. (Joint Constructive Agency) who are responsible for all construction in Europe, and this makes it possible for me to accompany him and see what is going on.

We are now on the Riviera after motoring slowly through Belgium, Luxembourg, West Germany, Switzerland and the northern portion of Italy. The trip through the Alps was indeed spectacular to say the least!

The golf courses we played in Luxembourg, San Remo (Italy), Cannes and Monte Carlo are very different from any course I have ever seen in California. Even the goats have to wear skid chains.

All of the fields and hillsides in each country we visited are covered with flowers and beautiful trees and are really gorgeous. We actually found one location that was almost as interesting and beautiful as Carmel-by-the-Sea!

Stewart Belcher Is New Owner Of Gardener's Friend

The Gardener's Friend Store, garden supplies and accessories, located in the McCabe Shops, Mission and Fifth, Carmel, has been purchased from Roland Haack by Stewart Belcher of Carmel Woods, who took over the business this week.

Mr. Belcher, who is a state licensed landscape contractor, has been engaged in gardening and landscaping here since May, 1954, when he and Mrs. Belcher came to live in their home, purchased the year before while on an annual visit to the Peninsula. He has had 20 years' experience in gardening, having devoted most of the last five years to landscaping.

It has been a dream of the Belchers to live in Carmel since their first visit here in 1930 when they came near buying a two-bedroom stucco house, south of Ocean and near the sea, for $3500. Instead, they started building small houses in the foothills area north of Los Angeles, landscaping their own grounds. In 1940, Mr. Belcher gave up bank work in the city to turn his gardening hobby into a business. He and Mrs. Belcher had taken landscaping and garden construction courses and Mr. Belcher was employed as gardener on estates in the Pasadena area. In 1950, he started working through one of the big nurseries on landscaping exclusively.

Since working in this area, Mr. Belcher has made a careful study of plants and flowers especially adapted to coastal conditions, those reasonably deer resistant, as well as of soil conditions and control of insect pests.

Earl DeSmidt, who has The Gardener's Friend Spray Service, will continue to operate through the store.

CITY ATTORNEY BACK

Thomas Perry, Carmel City Attorney, Mrs. Perry and Pamela got home Sunday, after two months' vacation, much of it spent at a summer lakeside cottage at Onekema, Michigan. Driving east, they visited Lake Louise, and returning, investigated the scenic and chemical wonders of Yellowstone.

The Time Has Come .

By Kippy Stuart

Here goes an old saw of mine, "Don't plant a five dollar plant in a five cent hole." Reverse the operation. More fine shrubs are lost through improper planting methods than for any other reason. A new plant, just removed from its container, must be operated upon before placing in the ground. Turn the pot upside down and gently tap until the entire root system comes free. If new plant is in tin can, the can must be cut before removing shrub. Now hold plant upside down and with trowel cut away a good inch from bottom of earth that rested in can or pot. With fingers feather gently roots that have started upward in the process of pot-binding the plant. With a sharp pruning sheers cut away all roots that will come loose with gentle pressure.

Your plant is now ready, but is the place for this plant to rest and grow prepared properly? To cut in the soil, the exact size of hole to hold plant roots is inviting disaster. A much larger excavation must be made, at least three times the size of plant root. In the bottom of this hole spread fertilizer and well-pulverized earth on top of fertilizer. Place plant in hole that has been prepared and let the hose run gently in before filling with earth. Finis.

But don't think your responsibility ends here. The shrub must be planted at least four inches below soil level to provide for future watering. I have viewed many valuable hedges and fine shrubs recently that are dying for want of water. Oh yes, says the homeowner, I water and water, but the thing keeps dying. Most of these hedges that I have seen dying on the vine are planted on top of a small mound which makes it impossible for water to reach roots. The only procedure to save such growing material is to dig small trenches about four inches deep and about four inches from the stalk of plant. Sprinkle any sort of fertilizer you use in this trench, then let hose run gently for an hour or so, thoroughly drenching roots.

I've seen with my own eyes a hedge treated thus that sprang to life in two weeks. From a bedraggled, forlorn eye-sore, this hedge is now on the way to becoming a thing of beauty. And how little time and work was required to bring about this miracle.

August is the die-back month in this locality. The ground is bone dry and unless you get water to the roots of plants, you might as well say good-bye to your garden.

What makes a glass of beer so right?
• With the finest climate and the most spectacular scenery in the country, it's not surprising that we really know how to enjoy outdoor living in this state. That goes for outdoor eating, too—barbecue or picnic sandwiches, set off by a cool tangy glass of beer, or perhaps ale.
Beer's always been popular with Californians. It's a traditional part of our way of life—fits in perfectly with our relaxed informality. Today's beer is light, bright and friendly—the sociable beverage of moderation.

Jimmy Hopper Last Of Famous Writing Trio

By Herbert Heron

Jimmy Hopper is gone. The last of the trio of creative writers who gave Carmel its earliest reputation as a center of true literature has ended his career. George Sterling, Mary Austin, James Hopper — living here in the sweet, quiet, beautiful and unspoiled village of 50 years ago — did their work and made their contribution to the culture of our land. Sterling was the first to go — by his own hand, in 1926, in San Francisco — but he left California, America, the English language richer by his poetry. There are few volumes of verse more wonderful than The House of Orchids, Sails and Mirage, The Caged Eagle, and Beyond the Breakers.

Mary Austin, who had traded the fogs of the Monterey Peninsula for the hot suns of New Mexico many years before, died in Santa Fe in 1934, leaving the world some 25 books, three of which rank in the top scale of American prose — a rich prose veined with poetry. The perceptive reader who has not known The Land of Little Rain, The Flock, and Lost Borders has missed a great deal.

And now James Hopper, in this year of 1956, closes the first half century of Carmel's era of creation in the art of literature. He leaves a much smaller number of volumes than either of his two contemporaries, and even these are little known today. The loss is ours. A writer of subtle charm, of keen perception and apt phrase, his work might astonish those who knew of him only as a star quarterback on a football team, as bow oar in the University shell, or as a mighty swimmer in the cold, harsh tides of Carmel Bay. Read the fine stories in Caybigan, catch the rare fantasy of The Trimming of Goosie, glimpse the delicate colors of What Happened in the Night. There will be no disappointment. Many of Hopper's stories, of which he must have written some 400, appeared only in magazines. Seldom collected between covers, they are difficult to trace; and of course his more ephemeral work — his brilliant reporting for American weeklies and newspapers — is almost entirely out of reach. As a correspondent in the first World War, he was in the thick of the fighting in France, and sent home some of the most vital accounts from the front.

Medals of Honor tells the stories of nine men who were given the highest decoration for bravery in action in that war. Besides this work of non-fiction and the titles mentioned above, Hopper was also the author of The Freshman, a football novel, and Coming Back with the Spitball, a very short novelette concerning what many consider the great American game. He collaborated with Frederick Bechdolt in "9009", the semi-fictional story of a convict.

Both Hopper and Mary Austin had left Carmel before I came here in the summer of 1908, and I did not know them till years later. George Sterling was here when I came, and he was one of the few who did not think my plan for a theater in the forest was crazy. I got the Forest Theater started in 1910, and George stood by me in the early struggles. Hopper returned to Carmel in 1912, I think, but I am not sure. I do know that he had been here for some time when he played a part in my Aztec drama, Montezuma, in 1914. His only other work in the Forest Theater was his collaboration with Grace Wickham in The Confounding of the Witch, a children's play staged there in 1921.

Mary Austin returned to Carmel in 1913, when the Forest Theater was preparing for its fourth season, and we produced her poetic drama, Fire, with great success. Her Indian play, The Arrow Maker, had already been done in New York, and this was given a Forest Theater production in 1914. Not long after this, Mary left Carmel for good.

The Sterling house was the first one built in the Eighty Acres, as it was known to all the early villagers. After the unhappy breakup of the Sterling marriage, Hopper bought the place, and the family lived there till it burned down some years later. The Gilberts live there now, in a house built on the same site.

George and Jimmy were close friends, and each greatly admired the other's work. One of Sterling's poems, Beyond the Breakers, is dedicated to Hopper. George used to speak affectionately of him as the Jim-Hop.

And now they're all gone. Many other writers came in the early days, and most of them are gone, too. Alice MacGowan, Grace Cook, Upton Sinclair, Perry Newberry, Sinclair Lewis — these all came in 1909, and all wrote many books. And of course, there were always the authors of scientific works — Jordan, Kellogg, MacDougal, and others.

Harry Leon Wilson, whose Ruggles of Red Gap, is an American classic (besides being a delightful thing to read) arrived in 1911. Then critic Van Wyck Brooks. Later came our great poet Robinson Jeffers — only his greatness was not apparent in 1914. Perhaps the Carmel Coast brought out the power and originality which has given him world fame. Then Jesse Lynch Williams, Martin Flavin, Lincoln Steffens, and hundreds of other writers, whose names would make a list too long for these pages.

But the strong foundation of Carmel's temple of imaginative literature was laid by George Sterling, Mary Austin and James Hopper. The close of Sterling's poem, Duandon, might well fit the close of life for James Hopper, fine writer and strong swimmer:

"For man has found, as man shall ever find,
Some echo of his travail on the wind,
And sigh of great Departures, and the breath
Of pinions incontestable by Death.
Of stars and shadows past to-morrow's ken
He finds him vision and announcement, when,
As storms beyond the horizon-line prolong
The sea's imperious, eternal song.
The thunder-chorded surf on yellow sands
Resounds, like harps on which the gods lay hands."

"How old am I?"

—asks Mrs. Edmund Dominguez
197 Millar Avenue, San Jose, California

She's mother of five fine boys yet she looks young enough to be their sister. And (lucky boys) she feels young enough to be their sister!

Why do so many mothers look and feel so much younger these days? One big reason is modern household appliances—they free women from chores that used to rob them of their youth and beauty.

Mrs. Dominguez, who's 33 years old, leaves much of her hard work to labor-saving appliances. How about you?

Here's the beauty of it: With gas and electricity so cheap in California, you can run a houseful of appliances all day for about half the cost of a bottle of liquid makeup.

SEASHORE GHOSTS

Enjoyment of the seashores of our country is probably the most popular form of outdoor recreation. The mountains, especially those made so accessible in the national parks, also have large numbers of devotees but most of them are less easily reached and all of them require a considerable degree of physical exertion, if they are to be properly appreciated. The seashore resorts, on the other hand, are nearly all at the end of well-travelled highways and invite enjoyment by relaxation rather than exertion. Hence their great popularity with throngs of summer visitors.

Man's possessive instinct has impelled him to acquire vast areas of seashore for his exclusive use. Fortunate indeed are the communities or states that have been foresighted enough to set aside beach areas for public use. On the eastern and southern coasts this is particularly true. The alarming situation has now been brought to public attention for the second time in 20 years by the completion of a survey by the National Park Service.

The facts brought to light are made even more disturbing by reference to a similar survey, the results of which were reported in 1935. The comment of the Park Service on the report is that "for the most part it represented the ghosts of departed opportunities". In that report the Service recommended that 12 major strips with 437 miles of beach be preserved as national areas. In the interval only one of the 12, Cape Hatteras in North Carolina, has actually been added to the national park system and all but one of the remainder have long since been "developed", either commercially or privately.

The new report, covering a survey of the coastline from Maine to Texas, shows that of the 3700 miles of coastline only 240 miles are now in Federal and State ownership for public recreation purposes. There are 640 miles of beachfront in undeveloped areas and the report recommends that "prompt action" be taken to acquire at least half of this remainder.

California and the West Coast can well learn a lesson from the negligence of the East and South. Statistics show that the value of seashore property there has increased 1100 percent in 20 years. With California's tremendous increase in population, which shows no sign of letting up, a similar situation will no doubt develop here. Fortunately we are no longer dependent on Federal appropriations and if we can prevent the siphoning off of the tidelands oil money into other projects, we may be able to better the record of the East and South. Let us hope that in 20 years from now there will not be as many "seashore ghosts" in our record of lost opportunities.

Rod Dresser Married

Dolores Ann Haught and Ensign Roderick Arthur Dresser were married at 7:00 o'clock on Saturday evening in St. John's Chapel by the Reverend Bernard Lovgren. The bridal party proceeded up the aisle between tall, white, lighted tapers tied with white satin ribbons, marking each pew, to the altar, decorated with white gladiola and stock, and lighted by candelabra. Organ selections, chosen by the bride, were played as the guests assembled, and the traditional wedding marches as the wedding party entered and left the church.

The bride's gown of heavy white silk taffeta had a long-sleeved, high-necked bodice, buttoned in back to a long torso line with deep points front and back. The full skirt extended in back into a chapel train. A lace over-yoke centered the bodice back and front and was embroidered with seed pearls and sequins matching the small pill box hat which held her fingertip veil in place. She carried a white testament, gift of the groom, adorned with a white orchid and stephanotis.

Glennis McGowan of Watsonville, cousin of the groom, was maid of honor wearing a full-skirted delphinium blue taffeta and tulle gown, and a matching short jacket with long sleeves. Her coronet of shattered white carnations matched her bouquet of the same flowers.

The bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Lester Haught of Fairview, West Virginia, were prevented by illness from attending their daughter's marriage. In her father's absence the bride was given in marriage by the groom's brother-in-law, Captain John Deas, USAF. Arthur Allison Dresser was best man for his son. Ushers were William McLaughlin and Allen Miller, cousins of the groom.

Mrs. Dresser attended her son's wedding in a Dior blue lace sheath dress, matching blue shoes, velvet hat and velvet cape stole, long white gloves and a white orchid.

The reception was held, immediately after the marriage, in the Copper Cup Room at the Naval Postgraduate School. White gladiola, blue delphinium and lighted candelabra were used for decoration, with the wedding cake circled by white begonias.

When the couple left for a honeymoon at Carmel Valley Inn, the bride was wearing a light blue, wool, fitted suit with navy blue accessories and a white orchid corsage.

They will make their home in San Francisco until the middle of November, then move to Long Beach, where Rod will report for duty aboard the USS Picking. He is a June graduate of the United States Naval Academy at Annapolis and before that attended the Carmel schools.

Twelfth Night Barbecue

Herbert Heron entertained the cast and production staff of Twelfth Night at a barbecue in the Forest Theater on Friday night. Hamburger patties and hot dogs were broiled over glowing coals in one of the big open fireplaces in the auditorium, a green salad was tossed onto the plates, and buns, coffee, ice cream and cakes filled out the aesthetics of the feed. Those present were: Nancy Lofton (who played Viola); Karen Silvear (Maria) and her young son, Brian; Jo-Anne Schoenbrod (Olivia) with husband, David, and little daughter, Suzanne; Milton Stitt (Malvolio), his wife, Lucille; Allen Graham (Fabian); Jack Morris (Sir Toby Belch); Gregory and Duncan Stitt (the husky scene shifters); Hazel McLellan (who made the costumes); Roland Scheffler (who arranged the lighting) and his wife, Olga; Mausita Jennings (who arranged the music) and her husband, Walter; Jack James (who headed the construction crew); Chris Peterson, Eleanor White, Raymond Clifford and his wife, Myrtle; Eleanor Mott, Judy Wilkinson, Paula Tobias, Blanche Tolmie, Jack Herron and Schari, Jean Stone and small daughter, Faith; Jeannie Eagleton and Mary Martin, ushers; and Anthony White (whose illness forced him to relinquish the part of Sir Andrew Aguecheek a few days before the opening, but whose slaves bore him on a letter to the party). Regretfully absent were Harold Conner (Sebastian) and Edwin Craig (who stepped into the role of Sir Andrew). These two young gentlemen were out of town.

Frank Putnam, Chairman,
Carmel City Planning Commission
Carmel, California

Dear Mr. Putnam:

The Point Lobos League is recognized by the State Park Commission, the County Board of Supervisors and the Monterey Planning Commission as the Advisory Committee for the Carmel River Beach Park.

At a meeting held by the League on May 21, 1956, the subject of the proposed road and parking area included in the Master Plan to extend to the River mouth for access to the Carmel River Beach Park, was carefully considered.

It is the opinion of the League that:

1. A road in this location would be contradictory to the Citizens Advisory Committee's recommendation for preserving riparian values along the banks of the Carmel River.

2. The accesses at each end of the Carmel River Beach Park, already incorporated in the Park development plan, are sufficient. This original proposed development reserves the main portion of the beach including the Portola Cross area and the Lagoon in their natural state with all formal developments located close to the parking at north and south ends.

3. The addition of another road and parking area will immediately demand further facilities (rest rooms, etc.) in the center of the beach area.

For these reasons, the Point Lobos League recommends against the inclusion of this additional road to the beach.

Very truly,
Margaret W. Owings
Sec'y, Point Lobos League

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SERMON

The vital importance of honoring God in thought and in deed will be brought out at Christian Science services this Sunday.

Keynoting the Lesson-Sermon on "Substance" is the Golden Text from Proverbs (22:1): "A good name is rather to be chosen than great riches, and loving favour rather than silver and gold."

The importance of spiritual values will be emphasized in readings from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy (239:5): "Take away wealth, fame, and social organizations, which weigh not one jot in the balance of God, and we get clearer views of Principle. Break up cliques, level wealth with honesty, let worth be judged according to wisdom, and we get better views of humanity."

Scriptural selections to be read include the following (Proverbs 3:9): "Honour the Lord with thy substance, and with the firstfruits of thine increase."

City Council Invites All C-2 Owners To Schultz Hearing

into compliance with the two-thirds off-street requirements for multiple dwellings.

This ordinance is still in effect but the planning commission has been given power by the city council, through an interim ordinance, to deny building permits when the use is incompatible in their opinion, or when a parking problem might be created.

In denying the permit, Planning Commission Chairman Frank Putnam said that there had been "much dissention about a present multiple dwelling unit across the street from a commercial service with regard to noise. Approving such additional applications would multiply the condition and lead to future controversy."

Commissioner Herbert Blanks said he felt that the responsibility of the commission lay in considering the intent of the interim ordinance, which "clearly indicates that the commission should consider, and be sure, that the use is compatible with the use intended in the area, since the ordinance is based on anticipated use of such zone. He felt that the commission should establish the principle that multiple dwelling units are not compatible with the character of the C-2 zone.

Last week the commission instructed Planner Larry Livingston, Jr., in writing the new zoning ordinance, to limit C-2 to light industry and commercial service, specifically excluding multiple dwelling and retail business.

Group Proposes Parking Meters As Alternative

note on the attached petition under number ten (10) that the Society has gone on record as approving a reasonable solution to the parking problem to relieve any congestion in the business district. The purchase of the Murphy lot has been recommended providing that it is considered feasible to do so. The parking situation has been carefully and thoroughly studied by members of our Society and the conclusion reached is that the parking problem in the City of Carmel is no more serious than it is in any other city and as a matter of fact it is by no means nearly so acute. However, to alleviate any traffic congestion in the business section the Society makes this further recommendation, namely, that the Carmel Planning Commisson seriously consider and recommend to the Carmel City Council at an early date the immediate installation of parking meters on Ocean Avenue and in any other business area requiring them.

All business people contacted by members of the Society have expressed themselves as being one hundred percent (100%) in accord with the idea, in their approval of and their desire for parking meters. We are informed that parking meters are now being made in many attractive styles and different sizes which could in no way be inharmonious to the Carmel atmosphere. Morever parking meters will provide a surprising amount of revenue for the community which should substantially ease everyone's tax burden.

The Society for the Conservation and Preservation of Carmel-by-the-Sea respectfully submits this alternative to the parking solution in Carmel in lieu of the parking solution as set forth by the Planning Commission in the proposed master plan which is so strongly objected to by the seemingly vast majority of Carmel citizens.

Very truly yours,
William Charles Culver

Lee Randolph

Lee Fitz Randolph, dean emeritus of the California School of Fine Arts and Carmel resident for the past 14 years, died on Monday evening in a Salinas hospital after a long illness.

Mr. Randolph was born in Ravenna, Ohio, on June 3, 1880. His father, a Methodist minister, changed pastorates frequently, the custom of this denomination, and Lee Randolph received his early education in several schools in different towns in New York and Pennsylvania.

At the age of 17 he accompanied his father to Europe for a year when the latter went abroad to further his study of history. This period of visiting art galleries and museums aroused in Lee Randolph the desire to be a painter.

He began his art studies at the Stevenson Art School in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, then spent three years at the Cincinnati Art Academy and another year at the Art Students League in New York. He next returned to Europe for study in Paris at the L'Ecole des Beaux Arts, Atelier Leon Bonnat and the Julian Academy, and further study in Rome and Florence.

His student days completed, Mr. Randolph, continued to live abroad for 12 years painting and exhibiting, coming to the United States for short periods for exhibitions of his work. His Paris studio was near the Luxembourg Gardens in which the Luxembourg Museum is located where hang Mr. Randolph's etchings purchased by the French government for permanent exhibition.

Lee Randolph came back to the United States in 1913 and began his teaching career at the California School of Fine Arts as professor of painting, life drawing, anatomy, and the history of art. In 1917 he became director of the school, remaining in this position for 25 years. He retired in 1942 and came to Carmel to live permanently.

In Carmel Mr. Randolph taught and painted and was a frequent exhibitor at the Carmel Art Association Gallery, and also served on the Board of Directors of the Association.

He won the first annual trophy presented by the County of San Francisco at the Monterey County Fair Art Exhibit. His work was widely exhibited in shows including the Paris Salon, International Exhibition in Rome, Chicago Art Institute, Cincinnati Museum, the San Francisco Museum of Art, the Golden Gate and Panama Pacific Expositions, winning medals of honor in the last two exhibitions.

Lee Randolph maintained an open mind towards all forms of art throughout his life and constantly encouraged young painters to express themselves according to their firm convictions, and to maintain an uncompromising attitude towards their work.

He is survived by his wife, Hilda, of Carmel and a brother, Reuben F. Randolph of New York.

Funeral services conducted by the Reverend John L. Powell will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock in the Little Chapel-by-the-Sea in Pacific Grove. Paul Mortuary is in charge of arrangements.

It's Official, Carmel Won't Build A Jail

Carmel has no intention of building a jail. The city council told City Clerk Larry Rose last night to convey this information to the City of Monterey and Arch Balchin, county supervisor from this district.

Monterey is contemplating building a new jail, Councilman John Chitwood told the council last night. If they build it for themselves only, it will cost about $90,000, but if they build it big enough to continue taking care of Carmel's, Seaside and Del Rey Oak's prisoners, it will cost $160,000. Monterey has never been eager to take in other cities' prisoners, even though they do receive $10 a night for the service.

Supervisor Arch Balchin has suggested that the supervisors might build a branch county jail, on the Monterey Peninsula to tie in with a sheriff's substation.

But before either the City of Monterey or Monterey County can make jail plans they must know whether or not Carmel would be a customer in the future. Did Carmel have plans to build a jail of its own?

Carmel did not, said the council. Moreover, Carmel likes the idea of the county branch jail because, as Chief of Police Clyde Klaumann put it. "We wouldn't have to pay the $10 per night fee we pay to Monterey on any violation-of-vehicle-code prisoners or any other offenders except violators of the city ordinance." It appears that Carmel could even now have most of its prisoners housed free of charge provided, "we wanted to go to the trouble of hauling them over to the county jail in Salinas," Klaumann said. "But when you think of the time and driving costs, it's cheaper to pay $10 and let Monterey take care of them."

scores of thousands who view Yosemite Valley's breathtaking beauty through a congested atmosphere to the small groups hiking through the hushed primeval beauty of our few remaining wilderness areas.

"At this untimely moment, a large forest products concern has seen fit to launch a nationwide attack on the national parks and wilderness areas, seeking to open them up to logging and lumbering. It has addressed itself particularly to the nation's press, claiming that the scarcity and high price newsprint is due in part to locking up, needlessly, in these playgrounds vast quantities of good pulpwood.

"When Congress created the National Park Service in 1916, it gave the Service the mission of preserving these remnants of our primeval heritage 'unimpaired, for the enjoyment of future generations.' Senator Humber H. Humphrey of Minnesota has introduced a bill providing for the creation of a national wilderness preservation system.

"Thus the issue raised by would-be exploiters of national recreational areas will be met head on. It is our opinion that for every publisher who will see some merit in the newsprint price argument there will be dozens of outdoors-loving publishers who will spring instantly to the defense of the primeval parks and wildernesses which the American public values so highly!"

This is an election year. When your candidates come campaigning in your neighborhood, ask them what they think of Senator Humphrey's bill and get them a promise to support it, regardless of party. Conservation is a non-partisan issue and all of us, Democrats and Republicans, should demand of our representatives that they consider the protection of our national parks and wilderness areas their first duty in congress.

—Wilma Cook.
